Judge Russell read the special call for the special session indicating the purpose of the meeting. After reading of the call he recognized Mr. Pete Littleton of Lenoir City, Tennessee, who identified himself as being a member of the Loudon County Election Commission. He stated to the Court that he was desirous of talking to them about getting the election commissioners under the Tennessee State Consolidated Retirement System. He presented the members of the Court with some information concerning this along with a copy of an attorney general's opinion to some state ~~officials~~ or county official in another county. He advised the Court that in his opinion the election commissioners were already authorized to be included in the Retirement System. Whereupon Judge Russell asked if there was anything for the Court to do. At this point no one made any motion or any comments including all the members of the Court who were present.

There being no further business to come before the special session it was declared adjourned by Judge Russell.

Dear Sir:

I received an inquiry from your office on June 11, 1975, regarding the membership of your election commission. As they were not included in any of your previous requests for departmental membership, it is imperative that an actuarial study be conducted on these individuals before membership in the Tennessee Consolidated Retirement System can be attained by them. This would involve substantial paperwork from both of us, requiring a minimum of three (3) months. If you applied today, your anticipated date of participation would be September 1, 1975.

If Loudon County Election Commission is seriously contemplating membership in the Tennessee Consolidated Retirement System, please contact this office for further instructions.

Sincerely,
