LITTER CONTROL REGULATIONS

The County Building Commissioner has given the required notice to a County Property owner, whose property has been determined to have a serious Litter Problem, and the County Attorney has followed that original notice with a Supplementary Notice, giving the property owner an additional period of time to clean up the property. However, it appears that property owner is not going to comply with the regulations, thereby putting the county in the situation of cleaning up the property on its own and charging the cost back to the property owner. If this occurs, this apparently will be the first test of the regulations in Loudon County, and possibly in the State of Tennessee.

TELLICO
AREA
SERVICES
SYSTEM
(TASS)
GLENDALE
EXTENSION

Attorney Sproul explained that at a time when TASS was unable to support the debt service on the loan, the Glendale Utility District had been created several years ago under the sponsorship of TASS (the Utility company located on U.S. 411 owned by Loudon County and Monroe County) for the purpose of obtaining grants and loans to construct the Glendale Water Extension from Greenback Northwardly to the Loudoun Estates. The utility district never was able to get a grant or loan, although it now looks as if money might be available again. However, it is felt that TASS now is in a better financial position, and that it might be better for TASS (representing Loudon County), to build the new water line without using the utility district. It was suggested that this matter be explored in a workshop meeting in the near future.
